

MIKE & JANE'S ANNUAL REPORT

December, 2022

So. At the end of last year, we transitioned into Year Two of “Movin’ On,” where everyone else seems to be relocating away from us (hmm... maybe Mike might want to lighten up a bit on that Axe body spray), and we are still in the house we’ve been in since 1995. It was a fun move forward, though, attending our niece Abby's wedding reception on January 3, that being some ten months after the actual wedding. But it was worth the wait. Later in January, Jane joined the 60's club and enjoyed a virtual birthday happy hour with people from far and wide joining for virtual cocktails made from virtual liquor (not really; the drinks were actually pretty nifty).

We got in a few jaunts during the year: to Stephenville in March, for our friend Marleen's son's wedding, to Nashville in April for Dave's move from a townhouse with three roommates to a small house with one, where he now has his own office; April also to Fredericksburg for a weekend with Joe & Renae Borgerding, May to San Antonio to visit Mike's sister Katie, July to Bella Vista, Arkansas to visit Joe & Renae, then to Wisconsin to visit family (and the Shrine of Our Lady of Good Help), and September to Hot Springs, Arkansas to meet up for a weekend with Dave and his new significant other Sylvia*.

Our friends Joe & Renae. Opie's should probably pay us for all this free publicity.

We do various volunteer stuff (which seems to consist mostly of meetings), and like going to the occasional play to see some of Mike's lawyer friends act (although having to sign comprehensive release & indemnification forms every time gets a little tedious).

Michael and Maggie have now been back in Texas for a year, and are getting acclimated to being homeowners, by acquiring a second car, a second dog, and in general a new respect for linoleum and various kitchen doodads.

One of their favorite things is hosting in their home: we had Thanksgiving for the first time there, where Mike's cousins Frank and Patti, plus our niece Erin, were able to join us. With Dave in town, we also got to go see some bands at the Kessler Theater with them all for a fun evening.

NOVEMBER: Michael's creative solution to smoking a turkey in the rain

* Sylvia is a beagle.

And there was other stuff going on...

MAY: A long time ago, Mike played rugby for 20 years. This year his team, the Dallas R.F.C. "Reds," won the National Rugby Championship for the first time ever. Pure happiness.

EVERY DAY: "I haven't had a treat in, ooh, at least five minutes now..."

SEPTEMBER: Weekend in Hot Springs with Dave, his dog Sylvia, our dog Bonden, and Al Capone, who was looking pretty good for being 150 or so.

WEEKDAYS: Maggie looks especially glamorous researching cancer metastasis at U.T. Southwestern.

JULY: Most of you probably think Waupaca is Han Solo's buddy, but it is actually a pretty cool town in Wisconsin to hang out with siblings on the lake.

APRIL: The Years of Relocation continue, as we helped Dave move from Nashville's version of Uptown to a really hip neighborhood in East Nashville.

AUGUST: The Wineaux Group soldiers on, bravely sampling various vintages even in the face of a pandemic.

MAY: More Years of Relocation, as Lisa headed off to hang out on the beach with her parents and siblings in Florida.

Thanksgiving: we really have so much to be thankful for.

We are really looking forward to 2023: Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all!
